

Graz, October 2022

Exclusion of Liability

The Office of the Working Group for Equal Opportunities at the University of Graz is providing this website in order to offer information about the office as well as equality and gender related issues. We are striving to offer accurate and current information at any time and to correct any mistakes immediately.

However, we assume no liability or warranty for the information offered on this website.

Despite careful review, all information on this website is supplied without liability. Any liability of the University of Graz, the Working Group for Equal Opportunities, the Office of the Working Group for Equal Opportunities or the authors is excluded. All texts, especially legal explanations, represent the view of the author and cannot replace comprehensive legal advice or predetermine jurisdiction.

The information provided here can only be formulated in a general way and is not adapted to the particular needs of certain persons or institutions. Therefore, they can under no circumstances replace individual legal advice.

Furthermore, although this site has been prepared with the utmost care, the information on this website may not always be up to date, accurate, complete or comprehensive. No warranty or liability for the accuracy, completeness, currency and availability of the information can be assumed. References and links to other sites have been carefully selected. However, their content is beyond our control and we can therefore not assume any warranty or liability. Because of rapid changes, it cannot be guaranteed that links are always working. In case you notice illegal content or faulty links, please contact us immediately: akgl@uni-graz.at.

We reserve the right to amend, add to or delete information provided on this website, completely or temporarily, at any time and without prior notice. Any liability for damages arising as a consequence thereof cannot be accepted.