

Your colleagues' thoughts about Language Learning Counselling

Language Learning Counselling gave me a new perspective on language learning. It should be about enjoyment and not only about methods. I learned something new by experimenting with language!

– male, 20, architecture

Even speaking about the problems you are facing when learning a new language is helpful in itself! Together with your coach, you find better solutions. I wasn't looking for a tutoring session because I know what I need to learn, but the question is: How? The Language Learning Counselling was very helpful in this respect and I can only recommend it to everyone!

– female, 31, law and business studies

The counselling was helpful in every respect! We talked about managing exams and many learning strategies were presented and explained as well. I was looking for someone who can give me advice on language learning and I found that!

– male, 21, German

It helped me a lot to realize that it is possible to learn a foreign language in small portions and while having fun. This gave me a more positive outlook on learning a new language. I no longer see all the things piling up in front of me that I haven't mastered yet, but I'm able to be happy about small improvements as well.

– female, 25, psychology
