

Professor Henrique M A Coutinho da Fonseca, Ph.D.
University of Aveiro

Assistant professor at the department of Biology of the University of Aveiro (UA), Portugal. Ph.D. in Biology from the University of Dundee, Scotland, specialised in the interaction between plants and mycorrhiza fungi.

Collaborator of the uinfoc, UA “Integrated Unit for Continued Education”.

Experience in teaching Biology at University undergraduate and postgraduate level including Non Traditional Students and teacher training degrees. Main research areas are Biology (biodiversity and plant-Glomeromycota interactions) and Lifelong Learning questions (from administrative procedures to education and transitions).