

Professor Lucília Maria Pessoa Tavares dos Santos, Ph.D.
University of Aveiro

Associate professor at the Physics Department of the University of Aveiro, Ph.D. in Condensed Matter Physics, presently also coordinates the Integrated Unit for Continued Education of the same University.

With a long experience of teaching University Physics at undergraduate and postgraduate level, in physics, engineering, health and teacher training degrees, and she has large experience in physics teacher training (pre and in service). Furthermore, she has been an active participant in several national and international projects, both in Physics and works in the field of Non Traditional Students. EPS individual member. ESREA and EUCEN institutional member. Main research areas are Physics Teaching and Lifelong Learning questions (from administrative procedures to education and transitions).