

Dr. Marion Bruhn-Suhr
Arbeitsstelle für Wissenschaftliche Weiterbildung, University of Hamburg

Until the end of March 2012 Dr. Marion Bruhn-Suhr was managing the e-learning activities in the center for continuing university and distance education of Hamburg University (AWW). Together with Lena Oswald she was managing the project "Virtual interaction with web 2.0 in enterprises – make it work (VIN)", a joint project with three companies in Hamburg. From July 2001 - October 2004 she was responsible for the e-learning project OLIM (Online Learning in Management). She is designing continuing education programmes of study to prepare students for the specific needs of e-learning. She was the Local Representative of The Open University, UK, in northern Germany and has been managing all activities based on a co-operation between Hamburg University and the Open University (since 1996). Her professional background is in the mathematics and statistical quality control.