Workshop: Beyond the thesis

The next steps after submitting

The International Graduate School invites doctoral researchers from the field of humanities to a workshop. In an open and informal setting, the event provides an opportunity to discuss the publication of your dissertations as well as potential future research projects. In addition, short presentations by the research management team will offer an overview of funding opportunities, application strategies, and relevant support services.

The workshop is aimed at all doctoral candidates and early-career postdoctoral researchers who wish to network, gain guidance, and develop new perspectives for their academic work.
