

The Department of Social Psychology is looking for a project staff member (PhD student) for the FWF research project “3EC - Empowering European Energy Consumers” with an employment level of 75% for a period of 3 years, expected to start on February 17, 2025 (salary scheme: Universitäts-KV B1).

Your responsibilities

- Collaboration in the interdisciplinary project “Empowering European Energy Consumers”
- Research on psychological aspects of active, sustainable energy behavior at the interface between psychology and law
- Writing a dissertation

Your profile

- Very good Master's degree in psychology, preferably in the field of social psychology or environmental psychology
- Interest in inter- and transdisciplinary research at the interface between psychology and law
- Excellent knowledge of written and spoken English
- Competence in the design, implementation and evaluation of psychological studies
- Extensive knowledge of psychological methods, statistical analysis procedures and statistical software (e.g. R, SPSS)
- Independent and autonomous way of working

If you are interested, please contact Prof. Ursula Athenstaedt at ursula.athenstaedt@uni-graz.at.