DOCUMENTATION

[2016–2023]

THE ORIGINS

The SOG18 was founded in 2016 at the University of Graz, where in 2011 the 13th International Congress for 18th Century Studies was held. It has had a cooperation agreement with the University of Graz since 2017 and, as a regional society, has been a member of the International Society for Eighteenth Century Studies (ISECS) since 2019.

The SOG18 currently has members from Austria, Germany, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Greece, Serbia, Croatia and Italy.

THE INTENTION

The 18th century has become eminently important for South East Europe, as contact with the ›West‹ has increased sharply and Russia has initiated an active policy towards the Balkans.

The ›Age of Enlightenment‹ has taken on a double significance for this part of the continent: on the one hand, it was and is about dealing with the ideas and practices coming from outside, and on the other hand, it was and is about being understood by the ›West‹ as something belonging to Europe.

The SOG18 is to be understood as an initiative to connect experts inside and outside of South Eastern Europe and to jointly pursue the above-mentioned goals.

Southeastern Europe contains a multitude of ethnic groups, cultures and systems of order that can only be understood and explained if the disciplines in question for research work together: history, linguistics and literary studies, art history, music history, historical demography, anthropology, archaeology, etc.

The SOG18 understood South East Europe as important part of the European community.
