§ 1 Subject, Qualification Profile and Relevance of the Degree Programme

(1) Subject of the degree programme

The Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences aims to impart the ability to contribute to the development of academia through independent research and to develop young academics and researchers capable of critical reflection, objective discourse and holistic thinking. The doctoral programme aims to provide an excellent education that meets international standards and attracts both national and international doctoral students.

(2) Qualification profile and competences

- a. Deepening methodological and methodical skills in the field of social and economic sciences.
- b. Approaching current problems in theory formation and empirical research in the field of social and economic sciences.
- c. Developing the ability to apply specific scientific methods to address selected problems in the social and economic sciences.
- d. Authoring academic publications on an internationally recognised level.

(3) Relevance of the degree programme for academia and the labour market

Graduates of the doctoral programme are highly sought-after young professionals that are qualified for scientific research in both university and non-university settings and thus able to contribute to the development of the international knowledge-based society within academic and professional contexts. They are also perfectly suited to working in senior professional fields of social and economic science and to use their comprehensive knowledge to ensure that social and economic sciences permeate everyday life and thus benefit society.

(4) Internationalisation

Stays or semesters abroad are particularly recommended for doctoral students in order to gain inspiration for academic work and to become familiar with international research environments. To further internationalisation, part of the curriculum should be offered and examined in the English language if possible.

§ 2 Admission

(1) Admission requirements for the degree programme

Admission requirements for the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences are:

1. the completion of a master's degree programme comprising at least 60 ECTS credit points or a diploma degree programme comprising at least 240 ECTS credit points or an equivalent degree programme at a recognised domestic or foreign post-secondary educational institution in the field of business, economics or social sciences or in a field that is meaningfully related to these disciplines.
2. fulfilment of the qualitative admission requirements according to paragraph (3).
3. sufficient proficiency in German or English for successful completion of studies in accordance with paragraph (4).
4. If the requirements according to paragraphs (1) to (3) are not met and cannot be achieved by means of supplementary examinations according to paragraph (2), admission to the degree programme is not possible.

(2) Supplementary examinations

In order to compensate for significant differences in subject matter compared with degree programmes mentioned in paragraph (1) 1 or to compensate for significant differences in subject matter necessary for the doctoral project, doctoral students may be required to take supplementary examinations.

(3) Qualitative admission requirements

Admission to the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences requires that a doctoral student fulfils the qualitative admission requirements listed below. The selection committee of the relevant Doctoral School validates the fulfilment of these requirements as part of the admission procedure.

- Applicants must submit an outline of their doctoral project (stating the provisional subject of the planned doctoral thesis) in compliance with academic quality standards and good scientific practice.
- Applicants can show excellent prior academic knowledge in the subject area.
- Applicants must submit a letter of motivation and a provisional schedule indicating realistic preplanning of the doctoral project. The goals of the intended doctoral programme must be outlined plausibly and clearly.
- The doctoral project is meaningfully related to a subject area relevant to the Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Sciences.
- The successful completion of an admission interview, provided that the Doctoral School considers an admission interview useful to clarify the applicant's qualifications.

(4) Language

As a prerequisite for admission to the degree programme, proof of knowledge of German or English is required for successful completion of the degree programme. The form of proof is to be specified in a regulation issued by the Rectorate.

(5) Selection committee

1. The selection committee consists of at least four people. The (vice) dean of studies responsible for the doctoral programme, the head of the Doctoral School, a representative of the curricular committee, and the proposed supervisor must be members of the selection committee. If one of these people holds two of the functions listed, their deputy must also join the selection committee as their substitute. The head of the Doctoral School acts as the chairperson of the selection committee. For reasons related to the subject matter, the head of the Doctoral School may invite additional people to review individual applications for admission. Such individuals are selected by the head of the Doctoral School and must be members of the selection committee during the review of the corresponding application for admission.
2. The selection committee uses the criteria in paragraphs (1) to (3) to assess if the applicant has previously completed a degree programme suitable for the doctoral programme for which the application was made, and whether qualitative admission requirements have been met. On this basis, the selection committee decides by majority vote on admission and any supplementary examinations for the applicant to take and makes a recommendation to the Rectorate. In the event of a tie, the head of the Doctoral School acts as a tie breaker. The selection committee must meet at least twice a year. Upon submission of all necessary application documents, the selection committee must announce its decision within four weeks after the respective application deadline. If the doctoral project requires the use of financial or material resources from an academic unit, admission may only be recommended if the head of this unit has been informed of this and does not prohibit the doctoral project on the grounds of a significant impairment of teaching and research operations. If the application is rejected or the selection committee requires supplementary examinations to be completed by the applicant, the committee must justify why admission requirements were not met or not fully met.

(6) Application documents

The following application documents must be submitted to the Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Sciences by the applicant when applying for admission:

- Form: Application for Admission to Doctoral Programme and Doctoral School
- Academic curriculum vitae
- Proof of academic achievements (degree certificates) of completed previous degree programmes / research or subject foci and transcript of records
- Outline of the planned research for the doctoral project [max. 1500 words plus bibliography],

- including a description of the underlying theories and methods
- Letter of motivation (statement of purpose), max. 600 words in length
- Signed supervision agreement
- List of financial or material resources required from an academic unit at the University of Graz (if applicable)
- Proof of the required language skill level

§ 3 Structure of the Degree Programme

(1) Duration and structure

The doctoral programme has a study duration of six semesters and is subdivided into a curricular section (modules), the doctoral thesis and the doctoral examination. Courses and an exposé worth 40 ECTS credit points must be completed. Including the doctoral examination (4 ECTS), the total amount of ECTS credit points for the doctoral programme is 44 ECTS credit points.

(2) Specialisations

Doctoral students must choose one of the following specialisations:

- Business Administration
- Sociology
- Economics
- Business Education and Development

§ 4 Modules

(1) Modules and examinations

Each specialisation (Business Administration, Sociology, Economics, and Business Education and Development) is subdivided into modules and their associated courses. The doctoral student and primary supervisor should discuss which courses the doctoral student should select shortly before or after admission to the doctoral programme.

The modules and examinations are listed below with module title, course title, course type, ECTS credit points (ECTS), course hours and the recommended semester (rec. sem.) in which the course should be taken.

Specialisation Business Administration

	Modules and examinations	Course type	ECTS	Course hours	rec. sem.
Module A	Research Seminars and Doctoral Colloquium		16	6
A.1	Research Seminar 1	SE	4	2	1st/2nd
A.2	Research Seminar 2	SE	4	2	3rd/4th
A.3	Doctoral Colloquium	DQ	4	2	3rd/4th
A.4	Exposé		4		1st/2nd
Module B	Advanced Methods		12	4
B.1	Advanced Methods 1	VU	6	2	1st/2nd
B.2	Advanced Methods 2	VU	6	2	1st/2nd
Module C	Advanced Field Courses		12	4

Module C	Advanced Field Courses		12	4
C.1	Advanced Field Course 1	VU	6	2	1st/2nd
C.2	Advanced Field Course 2	VU	6	2	3rd/4th

The courses in Modules B and C as well as the Doctoral Colloquium (A.3) are identical to those offered as part of the Specialisation Business Administration. Research Seminar 1 (A.1) and Research Seminar 2 (A.2) are offered specifically for the respective subject area.

(2) Exposé

The exposé is a subject examination to be completed in the form of an academic paper. In the exposé, students provide an overview of the relevant literature for their planned research, outline the research core areas and methods they intend to use in their doctoral thesis, and outline the planned timeline, including when the individual components are to be completed. The exposé thus serves to further develop and clarify the research outline submitted upon application, considerably expanding on it in terms of scope and detail. The exposé must be written in consultation with the primary supervisor and must be approved by the primary supervisor before submission to the (vice) dean of studies for assessment. The exposé will be assessed as “successfully participated” or “unsuccessfully participated”. The head of the Doctoral School makes a recommendation regarding the exposé assessment. Detailed information on what is expected to be included in the exposé and its layout is published by the curricular committee on the website of the Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Sciences.

(3) Registration requirements for attending courses for the

(4) Number of possible participants in courses and ranking criteria

1. For educational-didactic and spatial reasons, or due to the number of devices/machines available, or for safety reasons, the number of participants for the individual types of courses may be limited:

Course type	Number of participants
Seminar (SE)	15
Lecture combined with practice sessions (VU)	40
Doctoral colloquium (DQ)	15

2. If the specified maximum number of participants is exceeded, students will be admitted to the courses according to the ranking procedure of the Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Sciences, as defined in the Senate's guide to the allocation of courses with a limited number of participants, as amended.
3. In addition to the electronic course registration, doctoral students must be present in the first course unit / in the preliminary discussion of the course in which the final allocation takes place. Students who are absent without excuse will only be considered after all doctoral students present have been placed.

(5) Academic achievements

1. Following a consultation with the supervisor of the doctoral thesis and with the approval of the chairperson of the curricular committee, a maximum of two courses of up to 12 ECTS credit points from Module B and C and one course from Module A (2 or 4 ECTS) may be replaced by other academic achievements.
2. Academic achievements include the completion of dedicated study and research programmes at other national and international research institutions, in particular academic seminars or workshops (summer or winter schools). Lectures or poster presentations at academic conferences or similar events do not count as academic achievements.

§ 5 Doctoral Thesis

(1) Requirements

A doctoral thesis must be written in order to complete the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences. With the doctoral thesis, the doctoral student must demonstrate, beyond the scope of a master's or diploma thesis, that she/he has acquired the ability to independently solve problems in current academic research and has obtained new results. The doctoral thesis must be an original academic paper that has been independently prepared and written by the doctoral student.

In principle, the doctoral thesis can be written as a monographic or as a cumulative/compilation doctoral thesis.

In their doctoral thesis, the doctoral student is required to set out and present new academic findings in the context of the current state of academic research in the relevant field. The conducted research must be documented, and the results presented in a comprehensible form. The style of the doctoral thesis should follow the usual standards in the field. In the case of research collaborations, the doctoral student's individual contribution must be clearly differentiated from others, and each doctoral student involved must write their own doctoral thesis.

(2) Cumulative/compilation doctoral thesis

When writing a cumulative or compilation doctoral thesis, the doctoral thesis must include an introduction to the research problem along with the associated academic articles as well as a summary of the results achieved. It must be made sufficiently clear what relevance the results of the doctoral thesis have in the context of the respective research field and how they are to be classified within it.

In any case, the criteria for a cumulative doctoral thesis are:

1. A cumulative doctoral thesis must consist of at least three academic articles that have either already been published in an academic journal or are of a publishable standard. The Doctoral Schools must establish guidelines to explain what is considered "of a publishable standard".
2. For co-authored articles, the doctoral student must clearly state his/her contribution to the respective articles and include confirmation of this fact by the co-authors. The percentages of their own contributions must also be made known to the evaluators. The doctoral student's co-authorship must total at least 200%.

Detailed information and guidelines on what is expected to be included in a cumulative doctoral thesis and its layout is published by the curricular committee on the website of the Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Sciences.

(3) Subject of the doctoral thesis

- The subject of the doctoral thesis must be taken from the chosen subject area and must be announced during the admission procedure.
- It is possible to change the subject of the doctoral thesis during the degree programme up until the doctoral thesis is submitted; any changes must be approved by the (vice) dean of studies.

(4) Supervision

1. Only those who meet the requirements according to § 39 of the Excerpt of Statutes: Provisions under the Law Regulating University Studies of the University of Graz may be appointed as supervisors.
2. The (vice) dean of studies may approve additional supervisors upon request by the doctoral student.
3. The first supervisor must be a member of the University of Graz. Other supervisors may also come from other universities or recognised domestic or foreign post-secondary educational institutions.
4. The first supervisor must be an expert in the subject area of the doctoral thesis and must be announced as part of the admission procedure. Other supervisors may specialise in subject areas other than the subject of the doctoral thesis.

(5) Evaluation

1. The completed doctoral thesis must be submitted to the (vice) dean of studies. At the suggestion of the doctoral student, the dean of studies must appoint two evaluators who meet the requirements of § 39 of the Excerpt of Statutes: Provisions under the Law Regulating University Studies.
2. If a monographic doctoral thesis is submitted, the primary supervisor of the doctoral thesis may write an assessment report. The second assessment and any other assessments should also be written by persons with a teaching qualification from another subject area or from another domestic or recognised foreign university or universities of equal ranking.
3. If a cumulative doctoral thesis is submitted, the procedure under section (2) applies, provided that the primary supervisor is not an author or co-author of any of the articles included in the cumulative doctoral thesis. If the primary supervisor was involved in one of the articles, they must not be an evaluator. In such cases, two evaluators must be appointed, one of whom may be a member of the University of Graz, while the other must be from a different institution.
4. All evaluators must prepare an assessment report for the entire doctoral thesis. The acceptance of one or more publications in peer-reviewed journals does not predetermine the assessments of the evaluators.

§ 6 Doctoral Examination

- (1) The doctoral examination is an oral examination lasting a maximum of 90 minutes.
- (2) It involves a public presentation and defence of the doctoral thesis, taking into account the expert opinions provided by the evaluators in the context of a general discussion. Of the 90 minutes, 20 minutes are allocated to the presentation of the doctoral thesis.

- (3) The examining committee must be appointed by the responsible (vice) dean of studies upon proposal by the doctoral student. The examining committee for the doctoral examination must consist of three members. The doctoral examination must be chaired by the (vice) dean of studies or a faculty member with a teaching qualification (venia docendi) nominated by the (vice) dean of studies. Two examiners shall assist the chairperson of the examining committee. The doctoral examination must be announced publicly in an appropriate manner by the (vice) dean of studies.
- (4) In all cases, the primary supervisor and one of the two evaluators who submitted assessment reports for the doctoral thesis must be members of the examining committee.

§ 7 Comprehensive Assessment

- (1) It is necessary to determine a comprehensive assessment of the doctoral programme. This grade comprises
 1. the assessments of the modules outlined in § 4,
 2. the assessment of the doctoral thesis and
 3. the assessment of the doctoral examination.
- (2) The comprehensive assessment is to read “pass” if each of the three parts is positively assessed, otherwise it is to read “fail”. The grade is listed as “pass with distinction” if the doctoral thesis was assessed as “excellent” (1), at least two of the remaining assessments (modules and doctoral examination) were assessed as “excellent” (1), and no other grade is not worse than “good” (2).

§ 8 Academic Degree

Graduates of the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences are awarded the academic degree “Doktor/Doktorin der Sozial- und Wirtschaftswissenschaften” (Doctor of Social and Economic Sciences), the Latin designation for either gender variant being “Doctor rerum socialium oeconomicarumque”, abbreviated as “Dr. rer. soc. oec.”.

§ 9 Entry into Force and Transitional Regulations

This curriculum comes into force on 1 October 2024 (Curriculum 2024).

- (1) Students of the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences who are subject to the curriculum in the version 2018 when the version 2024 of the curriculum comes into force on 1 October 2024, are entitled to continue and complete their studies in accordance with the provisions of the 2018 curriculum until 30 September 2025. If the degree programme is not completed by 30 September 2025, doctoral students must then complete their studies according to the curriculum for the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences in the currently valid version.
- (2) Students of the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences who are subject to the curriculum in the version 2021 when the version 2024 of the curriculum comes into force on 1 October 2024, are entitled to continue and complete their studies in accordance with the provisions of the 2021 curriculum until 30 September 2028. If the degree programme is not completed by 30 September 2028, doctoral students must then complete their studies according to the curriculum for the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences in the currently valid version.
- (3) Doctoral students studying in an expiring curriculum are further entitled to switch to the currently ongoing curriculum at any time.

Senate: Ehrke-Rabel

Annex I: Supervision Agreement

Supervision Agreement for a Doctoral Project at the University of Graz in the Doctoral Programme of Business, Economics and Social Sciences

In order to apply for admission, this Supervision Agreement has to be completed and signed by the applicant and the doctoral supervisor(s). It must be submitted together with the application documents. The Supervision Agreement is conditionally tied to admission to the doctoral programme and is valid from the time of admission.

Doctoral supervisor

(Working) title/subject of the doctoral thesis:

By signing this Supervision Agreement, the supervisor agrees

- to supervise the doctoral project upon admission of the applicant to the doctoral programme.
- to create a timetable detailing the individual work phases until the completion of the doctoral thesis together with the doctoral student.
- to be available to the doctoral student for at least two supervisory meetings per semester and to confirm with their signature that the supervisory meetings took place; a list is attached to this document.
- to confirm the doctoral student's documentation of the supervisory meetings or, if necessary, clarify their contents with the doctoral student.
- to emphasise the importance of adherence to the criteria of good scientific practice in their field of research.
- to provide regular constructive feedback on the progress of the doctoral thesis.
- to support the doctoral student in reworking their original thesis concept, should the initially agreed upon doctoral project turn out to be unfeasible in its currently planned form during the work process.
- to inform the doctoral student about calls for papers and academic events and to facilitate exchanges with fellow researchers and academics in their respective fields of research.
- to support the doctoral student in presenting their doctoral thesis project or individual research results to the public.
- to provide the doctoral student with opportunities to discuss their doctoral thesis in terms of potential improvements and necessary adaptations before submission of the doctoral thesis.
- to support doctoral students in publishing their doctoral thesis or parts of their doctoral thesis as articles/papers.
- to point out academic and non-academic career opportunities to the doctoral student and to provide targeted support to doctoral students who wish to continue their academic work.

By signing this Supervision Agreement, the doctoral student agrees

- to create a timetable detailing the individual work phases until the completion of the doctoral thesis together with the supervisor.
- to aim to complete the doctoral thesis by the deadline specified on page 1.
- to participate in at least two supervisory meetings with the supervisor per semester and to confirm that the meetings took place with their signature.
- to document the contents and agreements of the supervisory meetings and have them confirmed by the supervisor or, if necessary, clarified.
- to inform the supervisor during these meetings about the progress of the doctoral thesis, in particular about any delays or interruptions.
- to inform the supervisor about a temporary hiatus of the doctoral project as well as any changes to or abandonment of the topic of the doctoral thesis.
- to adhere to the criteria of good scientific practice in their field of research.
- to present their doctoral project or individual research results to the public if the opportunity arises.

Termination of the Supervision Agreement

Until the final submission of the doctoral thesis, it is possible to terminate the Supervision Agreement at any time. In the event of serious violations of the duties and obligations specified in the Supervision Agreement, the head of the responsible Doctoral School or the responsible (vice) dean of studies can be contacted.
